Qualifications

Lecturer requires a PhD or substantial professional recognition in areas of soil science, water resources, and climatology.

About the Job

The Dept. of Soil, Water, and Climate periodically hires lecturers and teaching specialists to help teach courses in the fields of soil science, water resources, and climatology. Applications will be accepted into the pool during the fiscal year (07/01 - 06/30) and individuals will be recommended to the dept. head for employment by the search committee consisting of the appropriate graduate faculty member.

About the Department

The mission of the Department of Soil, Water, and Climate is to advance the understanding of Earth system processes and the interaction among land, atmosphere, and water. Through research, teaching, and extension we seek to:

- improve and protect the quality of soil, air, and water resources in natural and managed ecosystems;
- enhance agricultural and forest productivity and sustainability;
- predict and mitigate impacts of environmental and climate change on ecosystems and society; and
- provide science based knowledge for improved decision making and a better informed citizenry.

How To Apply

Applications must be submitted online. To be considered for this position, please go to the online portal www1.umn.edu/ohr/employment/ and search for the posting. You will have the opportunity to complete an online application for the position and attach a cover letter and resume.

Additional documents may be attached after application by accessing your "My Activities" page and uploading documents there. This position requires that you attach a listing of previous courses taught in the areas of soil science, water resources, and climatology as well as a list of references.

This position will remain open until filled.
